

SECTION A (40 MARKS)

Attempt ALL the questions in this section.

1. Define the following terms as used in the provision of counselling services. (4 Marks)
 - i. Informed consent
 - ii. Therapeutic alliance
2. A community health worker is orienting new volunteers on counselling services. Propose FOUR goals of counselling in promoting mental and emotional well-being. (4 Marks)
3. A college student experiencing academic stress requests individual counselling. Identify FOUR benefits of individual counselling in addressing this situation. (4 Marks)
4. A high school teacher is unsure whether a student's problem requires guidance or counselling. Outline FOUR differences between guidance and counselling in professional practice. (4 Marks)
5. A counsellor selects a cognitive-behavioural approach for a client with anxiety. Justify FOUR reasons why the choice of counselling theory is important in planning and delivering services. (4 Marks)
6. Maria, a college student overwhelmed by coursework and personal challenges, is advised to keep a personal journal. Briefly explain FOUR benefits Maria could gain from journaling as part of counselling. (4 Marks)
7. A rehabilitation centre is offering group sessions for clients recovering from substance use. Analyse FOUR advantages of group counselling in this context. (4 Marks)
8. During an intake session, a client appears withdrawn and hesitant to communicate. Describe FOUR strategies a counsellor can apply to establish trust and build a therapeutic relationship. (4 Marks)
9. A client discloses a traumatic experience during a counselling session. Identify FOUR essential counselling skills a counsellor should apply to provide effective support. (4 Marks)

10. A client has completed trauma counselling but still requires social support. Discuss FOUR ways to ensure a continuum of care for this client. (4 Marks) SECTION B (60 MARKS)

Attempt Any THREE Questions in this Section

11. Miriam seeks therapy for recurring relationship issues, anxiety, and sadness. She fears abandonment, struggles with trust, and is highly self-critical. Therapy reveals an emotionally distant father and a controlling, critical mother.
- a) Justify THREE key concepts of psychoanalytic theory that explain Miriam's thoughts, emotions, and behaviour patterns. (6 Marks)
 - b) Analyse FOUR psychoanalytic therapy techniques that could assist Miriam in gaining self-awareness and resolving inner emotional conflicts. (8 Marks)
 - c) Evaluate THREE limitations of psychoanalytic theory in understanding human behaviour. (6 Marks)
12. Sarah, a high school counsellor, learns that her 16-year-old client Mark has suicidal thoughts and a plan, though no set date. He begs her to keep it confidential, fearing conflict at home. Sarah must balance ethical duties and legal obligations while ensuring Mark's safety.
- a) Examine FOUR ethical principles that Sarah must consider in making her decision. (8 Marks) b)
- Explain TWO legal responsibilities Sarah has in this situation. (4 Marks)
- c) Evaluate FOUR strategies Sarah could apply to balance confidentiality, maintain trust, and ensure Mark's safety while complying with legal requirements. (8 Marks)
13. Counsellor James has been working with Jane over several sessions. During the process, a dual relationship develops. To address this conflict of interest, James decides to refer Jane to another counsellor.
- a) Besides dual relationships, clarify FIVE other reasons that may necessitate client referral. (10 Marks) b) Discuss FIVE benefits of client referral in counselling practice. (10 Marks)
14. Sarah, a newly qualified counsellor at a community mental health clinic, is working with clients experiencing depression, anxiety, and trauma. Although she is confident in her therapy skills, she feels emotionally drained and uncertain about treatment plans, particularly when clients resist or fail to comply. Her supervisor has noticed these concerns during regular supervision sessions.

- a) Explain the concept of counsellor supervision. (2 Marks)
- b) Assess THREE types of supervision that could be applied in Sarah's case. (6 Marks)
- c) Evaluate SIX benefits Sarah could derive from effective counsellor supervision. (12 Marks)